

Some Secrets Should Never Be Kept Australia

Type of intervention

Book/Guide

Target group/s, level/s of prevention and sub-group/s:

Children and Young People (Victims)

Primary prevention

Young Children (0-5 Years), Children (6-11 Years), Adults (21 Years +) | Male & Female | Book/Guide | English

Children and Young People (Victims)

Secondary prevention

Young Children (0-5 Years), Children (6-11 Years), Adults (21 Years +) | Male & Female | Book/Guide | English

Communities / Families

Primary prevention

Young Children (0-5 Years), Children (6-11 Years), Adults (21 Years +) | Male & Female | Book/Guide | English

Target population

Parents, carers, teachers and their primary school age children.

Mode and context of delivery

For parents, carers and teachers to read and to share with their primary school aged children.

Level/Nature of staff expertise required

No professional background or qualifications required.

Intensity/extent of engagement with target group(s)

Ideal for sharing with primary school aged children on an occasional basis, to reinforce key safety messages.

Description of book

This brightly illustrated book tells the story of Sir Alfred, a brave little knight who does not like what Lord Henry is doing to him but is frightened by what may happen if he tells. The book contains important messages for adults about listening and believing their children and picking up on indicators in their behaviour that something may be wrong. The story shows how a child's family can be 'groomed' in order to make it easier for the abuser to harm a child. Discussion questions at the back of the book provide a useful starting point for parents, carers and teachers to convey the book's key messages, including that children need to know that there is nothing they cannot tell someone they trust, that there are different kinds of secrets and some secrets should never be kept and that all children have the right to feel safe.

Evaluation

No evaluation data available.

Reviews

The foreword to the book is written by the CEO and Founder of Child Wise, an international child protection charity committed to protecting children's futures.

www.childwise.net

Publishers

Upload Publishing Pty Ltd., Victoria, Australia

www.upload.com.au

ISBN: 9780646546230 (first published in 2011)